

Avalar 360 to Host '09 Green Seminar

Avalar 360 is proud to host the 2009 Green Home Seminar and Tour on Saturday January 31. Along side DJL Properties and Design and The Home Depot Eco Options the Tour is part of DJL's educational outreach with the aim to inform the community on building green and how to incorporate green living practices into your every day life.

Cost for the event is $30 per person and attendees can look forward a catered lunch, event bag and packet info and Green Home Tour door prizes. Industry leading guest speakers at the event will include Brian Mandigo from The Home Depot Eco Options, Barley & Pfeiffer Architects and Dick Peterson from Austin Energy Green Building. The seminar will conclude with a tour of five local sustainable homes where door prizes will be awarded at each property.

"We're so happy to be a part of this event, especially this year. I think '09 is going to be the biggest growth year yet for green building and remodeling," stated Doug Byron, Broker and Owner of Avalar 360. "Green practices have come such a long way, I think a lot of people operate under the false assumption that to live green you have to make huge sacrifices and surrender a lot of comfort and style. That's just not the case anymore and it's only a matter of time before five star energy efficiency is the standard for new homes."

For more info and to register as a guest for the Green Home Seminar and Tour visit AustinsGreenBuilder.com.

7000 Bee Caves Rd Ste 300
Austin, TX 78746
512.732.1200

